(Jimmy tries a smile, knows it's a weak one, and raises his hands.)

- Current Mood: indescribable

Jimmy tries a smile, knows it's a weak one, and raises his hands. It hurts to see her freeze like that, uncertain, but -

"It's over," He says. "He - the angel - is gone. I can come home now."

There are going to have to be long explanations later, he knows. Explanations of how they can have a normal life now if they add some routines to their daily lives.

But right now: he can hug her, kiss her, hold her tight and whisper that it will be alright, he promises.

"Amelia," he whispers, holding her close, thinking finally.
